EF-58-H-R02-0520-43000104-1
BOE-58-H REV 02 (05/20)

AFFIDAVIT OF COTENANT RESIDENCY

Lawrence E. Stone Santa Clara County Assessor Property Transfer Unit 70 W. Hedding St, East Wing, 5th Floor San Jose, CA 95110

70 W. Hedding St, East Wing, 5th Floor San Jose, CA 95110 Ph: (408) 299-5540 FAX: (408) 299-9446 propertytransfer@asr.sccgov.org www.sccassessor.org

62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that	<ul> <li>interest in real property from one cotenant to the other is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.</li> <li>The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met:</li> <li>The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common.</li> <li>As a result of the death of the transferro cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting the cotenants were owners of record.</li> <li>For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property.</li> <li>The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the date of death.</li> <li>NAME OF DECEASED COTENANT</li> <li>DATE OF DEATH</li> <li>ASSESSOR'S PARCEL NUMBER (APN)</li> <li>CITY, STATE, ZIP CODE</li> </ul>	DATE OF DEATH ASSESSOR'S PARCEL NUMBER (APN)
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.         L	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenants interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, the deceased cotenants interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, the deceased cotenants interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, the real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the transferor cotenants death. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perioding the date of death. NAME OF DECEASED COTENANT NAME OF DECEAS	DATE OF DEATH ASSESSOR'S PARCEL NUMBER (APN)
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.         The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.         The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant on the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately pre	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section S2.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenants interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, the real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property NAME OF DECEASED COTENANT NAME OF DECEASE	DATE OF DEATH
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.         The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.         The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant on the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately pre	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section S2.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenants interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, the real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property NAME OF DECEASED COTENANT NAME OF DECEASE	DATE OF DEATH
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: • The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. • As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenants interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. • For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. • The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the transferor cotenant is death. • For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. • The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the date of death. • NAME OF SURVIVING COTENANT	he date of death.
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The transfer or the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant.	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the transferor cotenant's death. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the date of death.
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The transfer or the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant.	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the transferor cotenant's death. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the deceased cotenant for the one-year period immediately preceding the date of death.
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant's death. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant's death. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the transferor cotenant's death. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants continuously resided in the real property. The surviving cotenant must sign, under penalty of perjury, an affidavit affirming that they continuously resided in the real property with the
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.  The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met:  The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenants interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the transferor cotenant's death.	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record. The real property was the principal residence of both cotenants immediately preceding the transferor cotenant's death.
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record.	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013. The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met: The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common. As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy. For the one-year period immediately preceding the death of the transferor cotenant, both of the cotenants were owners of record.
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.	<ul> <li>Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.</li> <li>The change in ownership exclusion for a transfer of an interest in real property between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant applies as long as all of the following are met:</li> <li>The transfer is solely by and between two individuals who together own 100 percent of the real property in joint tenancy or tenancy in common.</li> <li>As a result of the death of the transferor cotenant, the deceased cotenant's interest in the real property is transferred to the surviving cotenant, resulting in the surviving cotenant owning 100 percent of the real property, and thereby terminating the cotenancy.</li> </ul>
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.	operty, and thereby terminating the cotenancy.
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that occur on or after January 1, 2013.	and 100 percent of the real property in joint tenance or tenancy in common
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that	perty between cotenants that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other cotenant that takes effect upon the death of one cotenant is not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that
62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section 62.3, if certain conditions are met, a transfer of a cotenancy interest in real property from one cotenant to the other	not a change in ownership. This applies to transfers that
	Under the provisions of Revenue and Taxation Code section	interest in real property from one cotenant to the other
Under the provisions of Revenue and Tayation Code section
Ē ,	NAME AND MAILING ADDRESS (Make necessary corrections to the printed name and mailing address) this real property for the one-year period immediately preceding the decedent's date of death.

 SIGNATURE OF SURVIVING COTENANT

 DATE

 EMAIL ADDRESS

 TELEPHONE NUMBER

THIS DOCUMENT IS SUBJECT TO PUBLIC INSPECTION